1]. Urgency granted.

2-4]. Judgment has already been passed by the trial/family court and the appellate court and before the appellate court it is claimed that the appellant has also exhausted the remedy as far as main judgment of family court is concerned. This is only an application before an executing court that it was obtained perhaps on account of playing fraud. The executing court dismissed the application. As no appeal lies against such interlocutory order under family laws hence the petitioner has filed the petition. There is nothing in the order whereby this court could entertain this petition as the judgment has already be passed by the trail court and the petitioner's remedy of appeal has also been exhausted. The petitioner has filed this petition only as a way out to delay the proceedings, hence the same being misconceived is dismissed.

The petition is dismissed alongwith listed applications.
