O R D E R

Amjad Ali Sahito, J: Through this Crl. Revision Application, the applicant has impugned the order dated 04.03.2023 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge-I/MCTC, Mirpurkhas in Direct Complaint No.05/2022 and Sessions Case No.77/2023, whereby the complaint of the applicant was dismissed on the ground that it was hopelessly meritless as well as tainted with malice. While passing the impugned order, the learned trial court observed that despite allegations of straight firing and threats, no injury whatsoever was sustained by the complainant or PWs and that the parties are closely related and are already involved in disputes arising out of free-will marriage and other litigations and that another direct complaint had also been filed by the complainant's brother-in-law against the same accused which reflects malafide and personal grudge.

I have also perused the record which clearly reflects that there is a matrimonial dispute between the parties and the allegations stem from that background. No illegality or material irregularity has been committed by the learned trial court while passing the impugned order.

In view of the above, the instant Criminal Revision Application stands dismissed.
